Once upon a time ...

Check it out if you ... have a soft spot for children's books, always like knowing the story behind a work of art, want to support local writers and artists.

The deets: The gallery exhibit running through March 2 showcases 40 pages featuring children's stories and illustrations from 11 pairs of local artists and writers. While some of the pages are from books in progress, most are part of a challenge curator Josh Lucas issued to local authors to write a 700-word story for kids. He then matched them with artists, many of whom never have tried illustrating before. Admission is free, but donations are being collected to turn the pages into a book. The exhibit is open from 4 to 10 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursday and noon to 10 p.m. Saturdays.

The payoff: Seeing Chicago talent challenging itself to try something new.

A WEEK IN THE LIFE

You think you're tired after a long week? It could be worse: You could be Sarah Palin. The former vice presidential candidate and ex-Alaska governor's week started with a controversy over her son Trig, who has Down syndrome, and ended with an announcement that Tina Fey likely will reprise her ditzy portrayal of Palin on "Saturday Night Live." Let's take a look back.

» During an episode of Fox's "Family Guy," awkward teen Chris falls for Ellen, a girl with Down syndrome. When he asks what her parents do for a living, she replies, "My dad's an accountant, and my mom is the former governor of Alaska." Ouch.

» Palin posts on Facebook that the episode felt like "another kick in the gut." Her oldest daughter, Bristol, called the show's writers "heartless jerks."

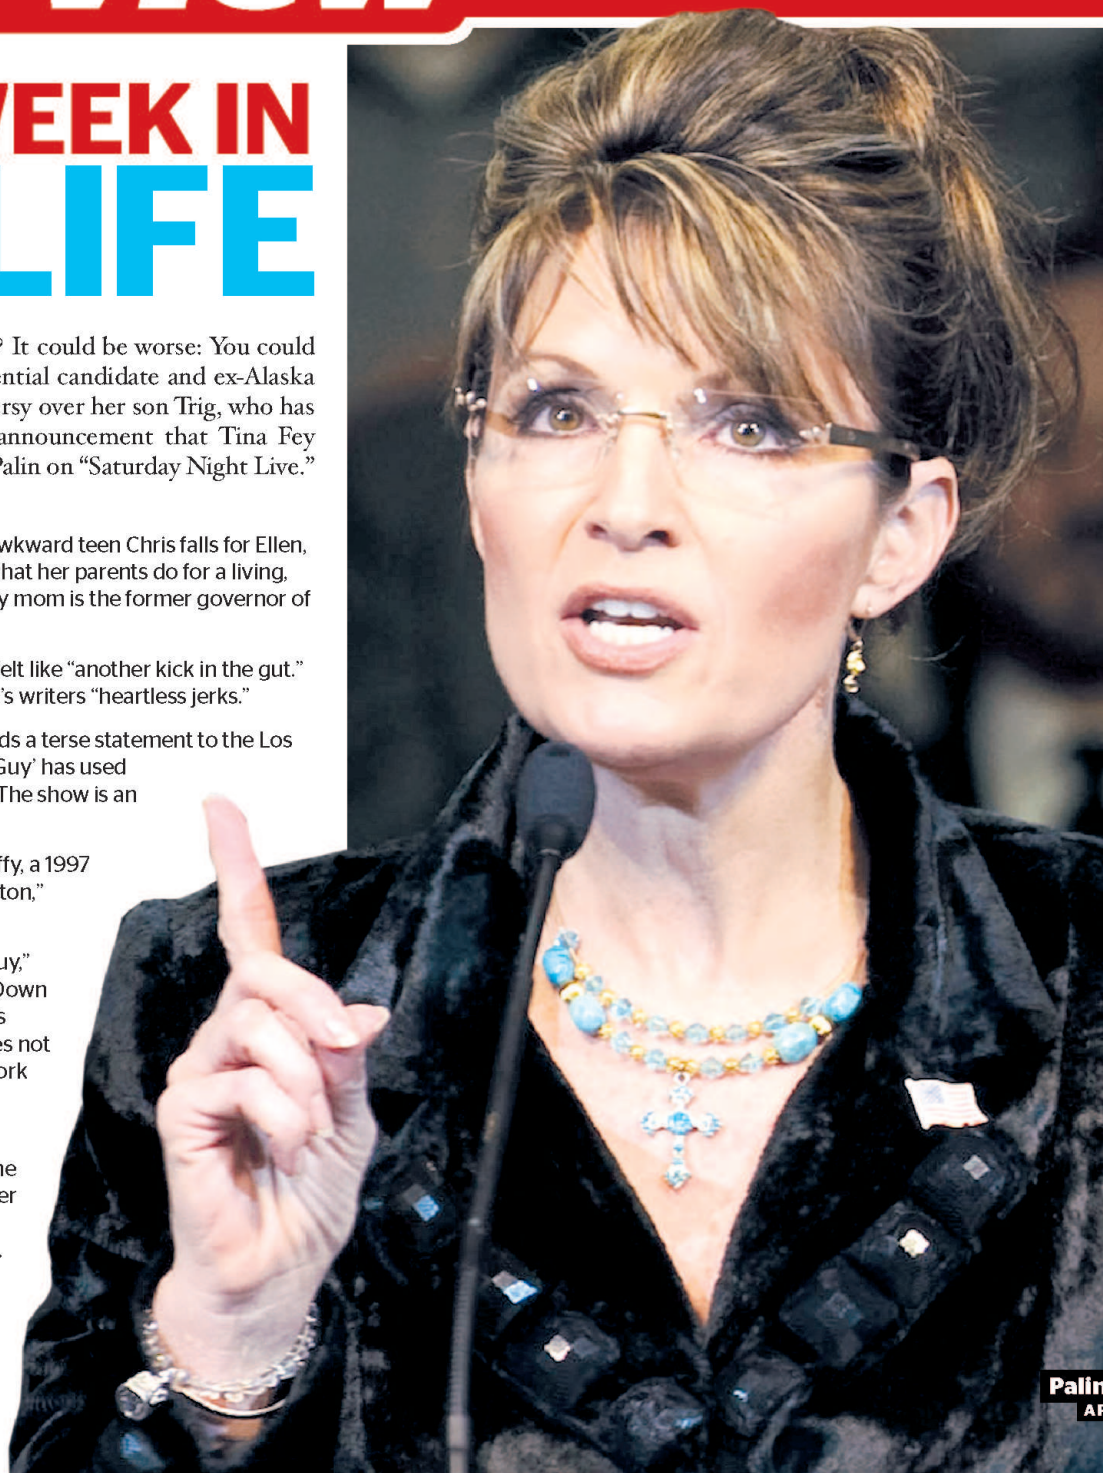

» "Family Guy" creator Seth MacFarlane sends a terse statement to the Los Angeles Times: "From its inception, 'Family Guy' has used biting satire as the foundation of its humor. The show is an 'equal-opportunity offender.'"

» Palin endorses fellow Republican Sean Duffy, a 1997 cast member on MTV's "The Real World Boston," in his Wisconsin race for a U.S. House seat.

» The woman who voiced Ellen in "Family Guy," 39-year-old Andrea Fay Friedman, also has Down syndrome, and she did not appreciate Palin's remarks. "I guess former governor Palin does not have a sense of humor," she told The New York Times.

» Bristol Palin's lawyer seeks to subpoena Playgirl and other media outlets to determine an appropriate level of child support from her baby's father, Levi Johnston, who recently posed nude for the relaunched print edition.

» Fey confirms she likely will bring back her folksy, dumb interpretation of Palin during her guest-hosting appearance on "SNL" in April. Bet Palin can't wait.

Several doughnuts from Bleeding Heart Bakery. BRIAN J. MOROWCZYNSKI PHOTOS FOR REDEYE

Glazed & amused

$6 doughnuts? Dough, yes! These treats are out of this world

By Erin M. Sarris
FOR REDEYE

Steve Marks is perfectly content choosing the cable company's budget package and will pass on spending $300 on a pair of designer jeans. But plunking down a few extra bucks for a tricked-out doughnut? Sold!

During a recent brunch with friends at Nightwood Restaurant in Pilsen, the 28-year-old persuaded his companions to spring for a $4 bacon and butterscotch doughnut as a starter.

"It was the concept of having bacon on a doughnut that made it so exciting," said Marks, a human resources consultant from Wicker Park. "The combination of sweet and savory made it really unique, and if you're spending $3 on a single doughnut, you might as well swing for the fences."

Move over, cutesy cupcakes. The doughnut's reputation has undergone an overhaul from Homer Simpson's chocolate-and-sprinkle-covered breakfast of choice to become the latest trend in the pastry scene.

Bakers in Chicago and beyond are experimenting with gourmet flavor combinations and unorthodox ingredients in doughnuts—everything from jelly beans to pomegranate and even sweet potatoes.

Dubbed "designer doughnuts," these treats are becoming the delicacy of choice for diners who want low-cost indulgences and a return to tried-and-true comfort food.

Doughnut sales jumped 7.5 percent in 2009, according to The Perishables Group, a Chicago-based food research and consulting firm, with the Midwest region taking the honor for greatest total sales for doughnuts. Though no Chicago-specific numbers have been published, local bakers and pastry chefs tell RedEye fancy doughnuts are becoming increasingly popular.

'You're going to have a flavor and a texture that is totally new for a doughnut, and that's exciting.'

MARK ISREAL
OWNER OF DOUGHNUT PLANT
IN NEW YORK CITY

But come on, these pieces of fried dough at bakeries and restaurants such as Nightwood (where the order comes with three doughnut holes) can cost as much as $5. Has the culinary world gone mad?

"These designer doughnuts by regular Krispy Kreme standards are pricey, but by haute cuisine standards, $5 or $6, that's not that much," said Paul Mullins, author of "Glazed America: A History of the Doughnut."

The economic recession has redefined luxury, and consumers are looking for reasonable ways to pamper their taste buds, said Kirsten Anderson, owner of caterer Glazed Donuts in Ukrainian Village.

"Maybe people can't afford the best house or the best car, but they can go out and buy a piece of indulgence at a price they can afford," she said.

Mark Isreal, owner of Doughnut Plant in New York City, sees doughnuts as palettes for creativity and experimentation. He created a square doughnut filled with homemade jelly. Other recent flavors, ranging in price from $1.75 to $2.75, have included peanut butter, roasted chestnuts, cranberries and coconut.

"The bakery is my artist's studio in a way, where I create," Isreal said. "You're going to have a flavor and a texture that is totally new for a doughnut, and that's exciting."

At Bleeding Heart Bakery in Roscoe Village, doughnuts are covered with ingredients such as apricots, peanut butter, espresso beans, jelly beans, candied almonds and even herbs like rosemary and basil. Co-owner Michelle Garcia says the most popular sellers, at prices from $2.75 to $3.25, are vegan doughnuts and the bacon doughnuts—go figure!—and that she took inspiration for the unique flavors after seeing lines around the block for doughnuts from other bakeries and chains.

"Chicago is a big doughnut city, but we don't actually have a lot of independent doughnut makers," she

Three for all

The best thing about doughnuts is that everyone is an expert. And when it comes to opinions, everyone's right. With that in mind, RedEye assembled a panel to weigh in on some fun questions about our favorite fried treat. Here's what they told us.

	Anything chocolate and I'll call it "5 Miles." Because it takes that long to burn it off.	The Holy Trinity. Two cake doughnuts (chocolate and coffee) together with bacon.	The Midwest lovefest: sweet potato doughnut filled with maple custard, glazed in cream cheese and sprinkled with candied bacon.
	Why must you tempt me with these questions? I'm training for a marathon!	... the doughnut would win in the first round and open a cold Duff beer to celebrate.	Poor, poor cupcake. The doughnut's got more to prove.
	I don't wince when I look at my gym bag.	By my glazed expression.	I'm wearing most of it.
	... kill the strongest will power.	... leap tall lattes in a single bound.	... render me silent—and, damn, that's hard to do!
	Milkshake. If I'm cheating, I might as well do it right!	Tequila. I find it goes with pretty much anything.	Friggin' Jolt cola all the way!

Bleeding Heart Bakery Kitchen Manager Matthew Smith gingerly handles a chocolate doughnut with gooseberry glaze and sprinkles in the store's kitchen. The bakery offers several high-end doughnuts, including banana with peanut butter frosting and bacon, cappuccino with coffee glaze and chopped chocolate-covered espresso.

said. "We thought, if we can't make these doughnuts work in Chicago, we need to get out of the business."

And business is booming, especially among those who are tired of the cupcake craze. Though Garcia said she will love making cupcakes as long as her bakery doors are open, she considers the doughnut process more "artisan."

"With these types of doughnuts, everything is hand-cut without machines and made in small batches to keep them as fresh as possible," she said. "The frying process is closer to bread, which is a much harder thing to make."

But Stella Yoon, 33, the non-gourmet, low-priced variety of doughnuts will do, thankyouverymuch. The Andersonville resident says she visits more traditional shops such as Dunkin' Donuts three to four times per week, and she is perfectly content to stick with the tried-and-true Boston creme.

"Ordinary doughnuts are classics, and you'll always know what you will get," she said.

Yet the doughnuts at Nightwood—including the bacon and butterscotch variety Marks deemed "deliciously smoky"—have garnered about 100 fans on their very own Facebook page.

Enoch Simpson, the restaurant's self-described "doughnutier," created his jewels of the kitchen more or less by accident in September. He made a batch of chocolate doughnuts for the kitchen staff as a snack one morning, and their enthusiastic response was enough to get the doughnuts on the regular brunch menu.

Simpson now estimates Nightwood sells about 100 designer doughnuts from a rotating menu each Sunday.

"Doughnuts are nostalgic and comforting, and of course bacon is an essential part of the brunch food pyramid," he said, "but I still had no idea that it would take off like this."

Sweet dough, Chicago

There's something unnaturally perfect about a doughnut, with its textbook circle of fried goodness and flawless glaze or frosting. If you can resist anything but temptation, doughnuts are your kinda dessert. From classics to reinventions, here's where to follow your hunger pains.

Local classic

Huck's Donuts; $1 a piece, $7.50 per dozen

Huck Finn Donuts, 3414 S. Archer Ave., 6650 S. Pulaski Rd. and 10501 S. Cicero Ave. Lovers of frosted fried dough have flocked to this local chain of round-the-clock diners since Huck started selling doughnuts in 1971. Baked fresh at the Pulaski Road location and delivered to the other two branches at 2 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. daily, 27 varieties of sprinkled, frosted and glazed doughnuts uphold the tradition. Yeast and cake brands are available, and if you want dessert to satisfy as a meal, order the larger Texas ($2) or Alaskan ($5.95, three times bigger than the Texas) sizes.

THAT'S NOT ALL ...
Find listings for more bakeries and doughnut-happy restaurants at metromix.com.

Rustic Italian

Zeppole di mela (apple cider doughnuts), $10 for about 10

Zullo's, various locations
If you've found yourself craving a cone of Zullo's apple cider doughnut holes since you tried them at last summer's Green City Market, you're in luck. This market-hopping vendor of rustic Italian eats is getting a permanent slot at the new Chicago French Market (131 N. Clinton St.) by the end of the month. Cider doughnuts, made with organic ingredients from regional farms and inspired by the recipe owner Adriana Marzullo's grandmother used, will be fried on site and served in recycled newspaper.

Upscale twist

Goat cheese custard doughnuts, $9 for three

One sixtyblue, 1400 W. Randolph St. 312-850-0303
Newly inducted pastry chef Hillary Blanchard updates her favorite dessert at this West Loop eatery with buttermilk cake batter that's filled with goat cheese custard and coated in lemon sugar. Dip them in savory olive oil sabayon and follow up with a side of lemon curd and confit lemon rind.

Classic reinvention

Enoch's doughnuts with chocolate icing, $4-$5

Nightwood, 2119 S. Halsted St. 312-526-3385
The rotating stock of revered doughnuts at this Pilsen hot spot comes courtesy of chef Enoch Simpson, who prepares three types for the brunch menu. Depending on the week, you can order Simpson's butterscotch-bacon-frosted doughnut or one of his signature creations, which have ranged from s'mores to peanut butter and jelly flavors.

SHOP IT

Post Pilsen Market

'Hood: Pilsen

The best time to shop a flea market is when you don't actually have anyone to shop for. And with Valentine's Day behind us and the next gift-giving holiday still months away, we're ready to browse without care at the Post Pilsen Market (1816 S. Racine Ave.), a new monthly craft fair featuring everything from screen-printed T-shirts and Bea Arthur note cards to brooches, vintage-inspired hair clips, handmade jumpers and tiny necklace pendants. Go to scope out a gallery space you haven't seen before, go to listen to the DJs accompanying your perusing or go to acquaint yourself with local indie talent. Either way, keep an eye on this event, aiming to return every third Saturday.

EAT IT

New prix-fixe dinner

'Hood: Gold Coast

It's no secret that Chicago Restaurant Week (165-plus restaurants; eatitupchicago.com) is off and running with special $22 (lunch) and $32 (dinner) three-course menus. It's also not a secret that booking a reservation can be difficult during peak times. If you prefer to avoid the fray and make your own crawl of Chicago spots, start with the new prix fixe at Trader Vic's (1030 N. State St. 312-642-6500). The mai tai lounge offers a three-course dinner featuring appetizers such as baked Maui onion soup, entrees including chai tea duck breast and coffee creme brulee or a Polynesian Snowball for dessert.

When: 5-10 p.m. Sundays-Wednesdays

Cash: $27 for three courses

DONATE IT

Canned goods to the Publican

'Hood: West Town

Be rewarded for your good deeds. Donate canned goods and nonperishable items to the food drive at the Publican (837 W. Fulton Market. 312-733-9555) on Saturday and this suds-and-pork beer hall will thank you with snacks and drinks from Hannah's Bretzel and Windy City Distribution. Can it get any better than this? Oh wait, it can. The Publican aims to hold food drives quarterly. Your donations will go to the Greater Chicago Food Depository.

When: 1:30-3:30 p.m. Saturday
Cash: Food donations

DRINK IT

Olympic cocktails

'Hood: Lincoln Park

Do you look at those deft Olympic ice skaters, curling pros and biathlon shooters and think, "They make it look so easy; I can do that"? On Sunday, you can! Sort of—in the only way that non-athletes like us can: by drinking. Get your game on at Tin Lizzie (2483 N. Clark St. 773-549-1132) with a day full of Olympic-inspired bar "sports." Try your hand at Beer Curling (sliding pucks on the beer pong table), Ice Luge (shot-drinking via a block of ice), Hockey Shoot Out (hitting hockey nets for a beer) and chugging the $5 Biathlon (a drink special comprising a shot of Canadian Whiskey and a Peroni beer). Prefer to stick to the regular Olympics? Sit back and watch the USA vs. Canada match on Tin Lizzie's TVs and enjoy $3 specials.

Lokal snooze

By Tran Ha

It's tough to go wrong with a brunch that comes with an offer of bottomless booze. Right? Right?

As it turns out, wrong—at least that's the case at Bucktown cafe-lounge Lokal, where $7 gets you unlimited refills on mimosas or bloody marys during brunch.

The first sign of trouble started with the overly complicated menu, about 20 items broken down under seemingly senseless categories such as “hale and hearty” (what do parfaits and smoked salmon blini have in common?), “delish” (caramelized banana frites) and “delicatessen” (biscuits and gravy, house green salad).

The fussiness extended into the food, with most dishes introducing a few too many extra ingredients or flourishes. A grilled polish sausage sandwich ($9) was overwhelmed by saffron aioli, bacon sauerkraut, pickled slaw and too-thick bread—too bad, because the sausages were actually quite tasty—and blueberry-lavender blintzes ($9) were a mess of filling and whipped cream over blintzes that tasted suspiciously premade.

On our server's recommendation, we tried the watercress omelet ($8, from the “eggcellent” section of the menu) with portabella and goat cheese. Our take: Skip it. The micro-watercress was too delicate to exert any flavor; even worse was the grainy goat cheese.

Lokal, which opened in the fall,

Blueberry-lavender blintzes at Lokal
JASON LITTLE/FOR METROMIX

wants to be known for a modern take on Eastern European cuisine, and those influences are apparent in offerings such as smoked salmon and caviar on whole wheat blini ($8), the dish we were most excited about. But that too came up short because of cold, cardboard-like blini.

Lokal also lost points for sporadic service. Some tables waited much longer for food than others, even though the crowd was light, and our otherwise pleasant server became increasingly frazzled as the hour wore on.

But back to those mimosas and bloody marys, which almost every table had ordered. Surely the bottomless booze made up for substandard food and irregular service? Maybe if you drank enough of them.

With some gigantic crossover singles, one of the most underappreciated albums of the decade and the group's brand-new holiday song getting released not too long ago, it seems somewhat surprising that when the Killers decided to film their adrenaline-fueled live show at the Royal Albert Hall, the stage they got placed on was ... very, very small.

In talking with Killers guitarist/songwriter Dave Keuning, we discover that such a choice is a deliberately crafted move.

Is it ever intimidating to go out there and perform for such a rabid following?

Yeah, I mean it never gets old when there are audiences like that. I mean, that's the perfect audience: singing along to every word, knowing the songs, appreciating the non-hit songs, stuff like that. It was a good setting for it, and hopefully that came across in the DVD.

The stage seemed very small and tight-knit for what is normally seen at the RAH.

Yeah, it is smaller! We had played there once before, and then when we came back for the DVD, we had kind of [forgotten] how small it was. Now that we've [done] that size, if we're doing this again, I think we might be on a bigger stage.

Looking back, what has been your biggest regret?

I don't know ... I don't have many regrets, although one thing I day-dream about sometimes is that I feel like there should have been one more album before "Hot Fuss," because we had quite a few songs that we threw away. Probably around 50. I feel that some of those are sentimental favorites for me, and a lot of them are just on four-track. So knowing that some of those may never see the light of day, I kind of wish we made another one, but I think that's what made "Hot Fuss" so special. ... It took us awhile to get a record deal, and then we had all these great ideas to put into that first record.

What is your proudest accomplishment?

Playing at Live Aid was the greatest feeling [in] the world. A great lineup and an awesome thing to watch. Getting compliments from people like Bono and Elton John. Those are the places you want the compliments from. That kind of helps erase the bad reviews, which I don't even read anymore.

Ray Liotta stars as Henry Hall, an Irish-Italian kid who grows up in a predominately Italian neighborhood in East Brooklyn, N.Y. Henry's heroes are those who work for the Mob. Once he is of age, Hall becomes involved with the "organization" headed by Paul Cicero (Paul Sorvino). Also around are Jimmy "The Gent" Conway (Robert De Niro) and Tommy DeVito (Joe Pesci). All of the actors are at the top of their game as the film covers a 30-year span of life with the Mob.

LIKE IT

VIDEO GAME
Endless Ocean: Blue World
Wii

Today's video games usually are violent, stress-inducing affairs, but "Endless Ocean: Blue World" is pretty much the opposite. Though it's more like a regular game than the original, "Endless Ocean" still is like aromatherapy or yoga in video game form. You play as a deep-sea diver, exploring shipwrecks, finding treasure or simply healing sick marine life. That's right, a game even PETA could love. RYAN SMITH FOR REDEYE

ALBUM
The Constant
Story of the Year

The St. Louis rockers bounce so often between the piano-driven pop of "Holding on to You" to the raging metallic punk of "To the Burial" that it's jarring. They are far better at the hardcore stomp of "Eye for an Eye" or the punishing "Won Threw Ate" than the poppier stuff, though the radio-friendly "I'm Alive" probably will get them more attention. Eclectic is one thing, but a contrast this wide makes the whole "The Constant" package hard to believe. GLENN GAMBOA, NEWSDAY

LOATHE IT

SONG
Everybody Hurts
Various artists

Helping Haiti's all-star cover of R.E.M.'s "Everybody Hurts" is a strange benefit single in that it doesn't really lend itself to repeated listenings. The new version, orchestrated by Simon Cowell and featuring everyone from Mariah Carey and Susan Boyle to Robbie Williams and Rod Stewart, simply keeps getting more maudlin. It's for a great cause. But as celeb-filled singles go, it's not one that we're all going to nostalgically turn to years from now. GLENN GAMBOA, NEWSDAY

Supplies? Check. Tunes? Check. Time to scrub

As a longtime Chicagoan, I get a little stir crazy this time of year. The days are slowly growing longer and warmer, but there's still a good month of cold weather and cabin fever to go. Although spring won't be here for a while, this is the time I like to deep-clean my home. (Who wants to stay inside scrubbing and organizing once it's actually warm out?) These are the basic supplies I use for (pre-)spring cleaning.

Situation: How can you get a jump on spring cleaning?

Solution: Start with a cleaning kit and crank up the music.

Homemade green cleaners

Your pantry is one of the best places to shop for cleaning supplies. To make an all-purpose surface cleaner (which also works on windows), mix equal parts white vinegar and water. For a cheap and effective bathroom scrub, mix one cup of baking soda with a half-cup of Dr. Bronner's organic liquid soap, followed by a clean water rinse.

Rag bag

I keep a "rag bag" hanging on a hook in the kitchen pantry. When T-shirts or sheets got too old to use, I rip them up and stuff them into the bag for reuse as cleaning and dusting rags. It cuts down on paper towels and saves a little bit of money.

« Multipurpose bucket

Tub Trugs are among the most helpful cleaning and organizational tools I've found. Originally designed for gardening and priced from $11 to $32, their stackable polymer design is ideal for laundry, cleaning and organizing. You also can put them to use as ice buckets, recycling tubs, toy storage or wastebaskets, and they come in 15 bright colors.

WANT MORE?

RedEye special contributor Sarah Coffey blogs for apartmenttherapy.com. Visit the site for more tips and tricks about apartment living in Chicago.

Vacuum

In general, a good vacuum will cost you. If you have rugs or carpets, look for a canister or upright vacuum with a HEPA (high efficiency particulate absorbing) filter. Hoover, Miele and Electrolux are three brands that have received good reliability ratings from Consumer Reports, although scores vary by model. For detailed ratings, check out consumerreports.org.

« Dish rack

If you're not blessed with a dishwasher, invest in a quality dish rack—it's worth it. SimpleHuman makes really good ones. They can be expensive (ranging between $25 and $70), but their modular design means that you can rearrange cup holders and racks to best fit your counter space. The frames are stainless steel, the inserts are durable ABS plastic, and each rack comes with a five-year warranty. Look for them at big-box stores such as Bed Bath & Beyond and Crate & Barrel or online at simplehuman.com.

Tunes

Everyone has their favorite cleaning music—upbeat, fast-paced stuff that motivates you to move. (I like to mix it up between M.I.A., the Buzzcocks, Le Tigre and the Pogues.) To keep your energy up, make a cleaning playlist on your iPod or computer.

ISLAND

A maddening journey into madness

How did a woman who killed her children (Emily Mortimer) escape a psychiatric hospital for the criminally insane? Where did she go? Detectives Teddy (Leonardo DiCaprio) and Chuck (Mark Ruffalo) search for answers as Teddy confronts painful nightmares of his wife's (Michelle Williams) death in a fire. If you were expecting this movie to put you in a happy mood, you'd be wrong.

The buzz: Director Martin Scorsese and DiCaprio previously teamed on a great film ("The Departed"), a good one ("Gangs of New York") and an average one ("The Aviator"). "Shutter Island," the filmmaker's return to terror ("Cape Fear") and the latest adaptation of a Dennis Lehane novel ("Mystic River," "Gone Baby Gone"), was set for release in October, but was pushed back to strengthen Paramount's 2010 schedule. So they say.

The verdict: Like a little brother who wants you to guess his secret, "Shutter Island" delivers such blatant clues to its surprise that the tension leaks out of the movie once you're even partially hip to what's happening. The movie, marvelously creepy in parts and frustratingly choppy in others, is better viewed not as a contrived mystery but a study in madness's ability to overpower a fragile mind. A climactic scene of raw, unthinkable sadness will stick with you even if the film doesn't.

VIJAY MAHAJAN

Northeastern Illinois University presents a free lecture with author and global consultant Vijay Mahajan on Thursday, February 25 at 7:05 p.m. (Session with students at 2:50 p.m.). Vijay Mahajan is the author of Africa Rising: How 900 Million Consumers Offer More Than You Think. In Africa Rising...Vijay Mahajan reveals this remarkable marketplace in all its richness and complexity, and helps companies understand the massive opportunity it presents. Mahajan tells the stories that western executives and managers rarely hear: stories of African entrepreneurs, executives, and enterprises that are identifying powerful market opportunities and capitalizing on them. Professor Vijay Mahajan holds the John P. Harbin Centennial Chair in Business, Graduate School of Business, The University of Texas, Austin, Texas.

The lecture is free and no tickets and no reservations are required. The Northeastern Illinois University Auditorium is located at 3701 W. Bryn Mawr Ave. in Chicago. Free parking after 6 p.m. in Lot F or the 4th floor of the parking garage. 773-442-4978. www.neiu.edu

2011 Ford Mustang Shelby GT500

The Special Vehicle Team rendition (above) goes on sale in the spring. Ford says despite the supercharged V-8 engine, mileage is projected at 15 city/23 highway, so no gas-guzzler tax for 2011.

2011 BMW Alpina B7

The Alpina B7 sedan goes on sale this spring as the top-of-the-line 7-Series, setting a benchmark in performance, refinement, technology, luxury and exclusivity. How can you not love a car with Myrtle Burl interior wood trim?

2011 Chevrolet Silverado HD

Able to tow 20,000 pounds, Chevy's heavy-duty pickups go on sale this summer.

2011 Ford Edge

First revamp since its 2006 intro. The midsize crossover goes on sale this summer with a new look, new technology and three new engines.

'I AM DEEPLY SORRY'

TIGER WOODS APOLOGIZES FOR BEHAVIOR, SAYS HE'S UNSURE OF RETURN TO GOLF

Associated Press

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. Tiger Woods apologized Friday for cheating on his wife and says he is unsure when he will return to competitive golf.

"I was unfaithful. I had affairs. I cheated. What I did was not acceptable," said Woods, looking composed and speaking in a steady voice. His wife, Elin, was not with him.

As for coming back to the PGA Tour, the planet's best golfer said: "I do plan to return to golf one day. I just don't know when that day will be. I don't rule out it will be this year."

Woods talked for more than 13 minutes from the clubhouse at the TPC Sawgrass, home of the PGA Tour. About 40 people were in the room, including his mother. He hugged her when he finished speaking, and she whispered in his ear.

"I said, 'I'm so proud of you. Never think you stand alone. Mom will always be there for you and I love you,'" Kultida Woods said.

Admitting he felt he "deserved to enjoy the temptations" that came with his fabulous success, Woods said he is solely responsible for his actions. "I am deeply sorry for my irresponsible and selfish behavior," Woods said.

Woods said he was in treatment for 45 days and will return for more therapy, adding he has more work to do to resolve his personal problems.

Woods had not talked in public since his traffic accident Nov. 27 triggered shocking revelations about Woods' serial infidelity.

Friday's event was tightly controlled, with only a few journalists allowed to watch Woods live. The televised confession became a major television event with the networks breaking in to show it.

Media master

Across the media landscape, time stopped for 13 ½ minutes Friday as Tiger Woods cleared his throat and tried to clear the air with an extraordinary video apology for his sexual escapades.

Dozens of broadcast networks, cable news outlets and online streams carried his prepared statement live, allowing a global audience to see and hear from Woods for the first time since his public image went into free fall nearly three months ago.

Here are some reactions:

» ABC's George Stephanopoulos called the speech "one of the most remarkable public apologies ever by a public figure."

» Rick Cerrone, former New York Yankees public relations director, disagreed. "What I saw was arrogance. ... It was basically an infomercial," he said on CNN.

» CBS' David Feherty, who has covered Woods on the circuit, said, "I have never seen him appear so vulnerable. ... I was very impressed with what he said."

Student shot at NIU, suspect in custody

Chicago Tribune

A student was shot in the leg Friday when an argument between him and another student erupted into gunfire on the campus of Northern Illinois University, officials said.

"Two students were in an altercation that resulted in one student allegedly shooting the other student in the leg," NIU President John G. Peters said at a news conference.

"This appears to be an isolated incident. The shooter fled on foot and was apprehended by the NIU police within a few minutes," he said. "The victim's injuries are not life threatening."

The victim was taken to a local hospital with a gunshot wound above the knee. The shooting occurred outside Stevenson Residence Hall, where the victim lived, Peters said.

Officials said they were questioning six witnesses, one who saw the shooting and five others who were in the area.

Daniela Bedolla, 22, was studying in her dorm room in Stevenson at about 4 a.m. when she heard a single gunshot.

"It was really loud. ... I just thought it was drunk kids fooling around, or a car backfiring or something," she said.

But soon word spread that someone had been shot outside, and a resident on Bedolla's floor shouted that someone should call 911.

She said she later received a text alert from the school about the shooting.

Last week marked the second anniversary of a mass shooting on campus that claimed the lives of five students in a lecture hall where a geology class was taking place.

Nineteen others were injured, and the gunman, 27-year-old Steven Kazmierczak, a graduate student at the University of Illinois, killed himself before police arrived.

Peters referred to the rampage two years ago as he discussed the university's response this morning.

"Unfortunately, we have learned how to do this from our previous experience," he said.

RedEye heats up the Winter Games

By Ryan Smith FOR REDEYE

At some point while watching a cross-country-skiing Frenchman lie in the snow for what seemed like forever to shoot a rifle at a small target, we realized the Winter Olympics could use a few more relevant events to spice things up. Where are the bitter feuds, the laser light shows, the R-rated scenes? There's only a week left before the Olympic caldron is extinguished—here are some of our humble suggestions to get the flame burning bright. RYAN SMITH IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

'Idol' on Ice!

Even with Ellen DeGeneres in the mix, "American Idol" feels a little tired this season. Why not combine Simon Cowell's creation with the Olympics and turn it into a singing competition on skates? Watching contestants hit a high note while nailing a triple lutz never would get old.

The Winter Bus Drive

Putting Olympic athletes behind the wheel of CTA buses wouldn't be much fun to watch, but we need someone to fill the gaps with all of the CTA service cuts, right? Of course, there would be penalties for bus bunching.

Naked Coed Snowball Fight

No explanation needed. This event would be a ratings bonanza. (And a frostbite risk.)

Enter a number between 1 and 9 in the empty squares. The clues are the numbers in the white circles that give the sum of the solution numbers: above the line are across clues; below the line are down clues. Thus, a clue of 3 will produce a solution of 2 and 1, and a 5 will produce 4 and 1, or 2 and 3, but, of course, which squares they go in will depend on the solution of a clue in the other direction. No digit can be repeated in a solution. Answer at redyechicago.com/puzzles.

If Erector Set gets a movie, which other childhood distractions deserve their own flick?

Oh, look, another addition to the Hollywood-is-almost-out-of-ideas file: A movie is in the works featuring—wait for it—Erector Sets. Yep, that Erector Set, the model toy-building collection of metal strips and rods invented in 1911. Naturally, the Erector Set movie, loosely described by The Hollywood Reporter as a “family fantasy/adventure,” will get a modern upgrade and will be shot in 3-D. Anyone else see some untapped potential here? RedEye offers a few movie suggestions—complete with blockbuster titles, award-winning plots and bankable stars—based on classic playthings. ARIEL ALEXOVICH, REDEYE
